Local Notes

Ted Williams to appear Oct. 14 in Harper

Bellefontaine, 67, has a guest speaker set next month focusing on homelessness.

At 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14, Ted Williams, author of A Golden Game, Visit Steel and Wrecking Ball and Stolen Bases for Strive to Survive, will be a guest speaker. The noted radio, actor, author and former professional baseball player was born in Bellefontaine and will be in town in January 2011 when a videographer from the Columbus Dispatch filmed him standing next to baseball cards cached with his voice.

The event is open to the public and his life's changes immediately.

He has appeared on television and been interviewed by news outlets throughout the country. He has raised millions of dollars for a proponent for the homeless and has inspired many to continue to support the cause.

At 7 p.m. Pacific time, an interesting year for his appearances.

Tigers win battle of state-ranked squads at Ohio Caverns

BY THE BELLEFONTAINE EXAMINER STAFF

It was a battle between some of the state’s best cross country teams hosted at Tecumseh’s Ohio Caverns Memorial on the Ohio’sFest. West Liberty-Salem and Columbus Grove City have both their boys and girls teams ranked in the Division III state poll. The Tigers were able to hold off these top teams by beating by the boiling, the Bulldogs, who are ranked seventh, 36-35.

The Big Orange girls, who are the top two teams, were held out of the top rank by beating the Bulldogs, who are ranked seventh, 36-35.

The Tiger boys pulled an upset beating the Bulldogs, West Liberty-Salem, which is ranked third, 39-36. The Tiger girls were also second at the Ohio Caverns girls 41-46.

"The Ohio Caverns is the toughest course we‘ve race on all season," said WL-Salem girls head coach Alan Vogel. "I was proud of the way the girls competed and battled throughout the course. It was a great team effort," said WL-Salem boys head coach Mike Louden. "We had seven of our 10 runners posted, and those that didn’t were consistently close. We had a rough last week with plenty of adversity, so to see the guys come back this week and knock off West Liberty-Salem says a lot about their fight and determination.

The rest of the girls field saw Kenyon Forest with 111 points and New Bremen come in fourth with 121 points. Bellefontaine took sixth with 193 points. Ben Logan was seventh with 201 points, Bellefontaine’s girls had an impressive race with all of its top seven scores finishing in the top 20.

In addition to Megan Adams’s win, Kaelyn Napier was third overall with 28 points (28:32), Lydia Moell was fourth with 30 points (28:57), Madisen Balaban was fifth with 33 points (29:13), Morgan King was sixth with 32 points and Hannah Henderson was seventh with 32 points (29:36).

Bellefontaine’s Brooke McClellan highlighted the event with a strong fifth place finish in a time of 20:41. Other top finishers came from Centerville’s Emma Woods in 14th (23:35), Cheryl Stone in 15th with 22:29, Stephanie Zoll in 16th (23:12) and Troy’s Kaylee Skidmore in 17th (22:17).

The rest of the team saw Angela Lewis in 18th with 23 points (22:36), Emma Van Tine in 19th (22:45), and Kaylee Forrman in 20th with 25 points (22:55)."
